Thursday, May 26th, at 11:00 a.m., located within the National Pinacoteca in Cagliari, Sardinian Museums director Giovanna Damiani, MIBACT Regional Secretariat director Fausto Martino and Maura Picciau, superintendent of Fine Arts and Landscaping of Sassari, present the panel embodying “The Burial of Christ”, panel painted by Pietro Cavaro, dating back to 1520. The work, purchased by the Ministry of Cultural Heritage, Activities and Tourism near the end of 2014, holds an important place in the reconstruction of “Our Lady of Seven Sorrows” by Pietro Cavaro, a piece that went missing at the beginning of the nineteenth century, pairing with the superstitious “Deposition” that has been part of the National Pinacoteca collection since 1955.
