

Military Landscapes. Scenarios for the future of military heritage

An international comparison for the 150th anniversary of the discharge of Italian military strongholds

Auditorium at the Military Marina – La Maddalena 21-24.06.2017

Inauguration – Wednesday, June 21st, 2017 at 6 p.m.

Arbuticci Fort Exhibition – Giuseppe Garibaldi Memorial Museum – Island of Caprera – 21.06 –

21.09.2017

Redevelopment and use of the fortress and military headquarters for the understanding and appreciation of military history. The Sardinian Museums Organization, the Università degli Studi in Cagliari, the Italian Institute of Castles and University of Edinburgh all present, from June 21-24, 2017, at the Auditorium of the Military Marina in La Maddalena, via Ammiraglio Mirabello 49, the international convention Military Landscapes. Scenarios for the future of military heritage. An international comparison for the 150th anniversary of the discharge of Italian military strongholds. Starting on the inaugural day of Wednesday, June 21st at 6 p.m., a rich program will see experts of international fame come together, as well as presentations aimed towards themes of awareness, preservation, redevelopment and management of military heritage. The event will propose and share case studies, research projects and institutional initiatives, regarding the safeguarding and appreciation of military history. Additionally, from June 21st to September 21st, 2017, in the splendid backdrop of Arbuticci Fort, built at the end of the 19th century, today the Giuseppe Garibaldi National Memorial Museum, will be open for visiting the exposition of scientific contributions and multi-disciplinary products for the convention.