The President of the Republic visits the Archeological Museum of Cagliari. A special day on Monday, October 2nd, 2017 for the Archeological Museum of Cagliari. President of the Republic Sergio Mattarella has chosen the museum as one of the stops on his visit to Cagliari. Accompanied by Sardinian Museums Organization director Giovanna Damiani as well as museum director Roberto Concas, the head of state was able to admire the splendid repertoire from the collection newly on display at the museum since 2016 which has become “liquid”, ever more accessible and satisfying the needs of all visitors alike. In an itinerary that has embraced the history of various civilizations that came upon Sardinia, the president was able to ascertain, with great admiration, the new forms of participation and interaction of culture intended as a dialogue that the museum offers its visitors.
